Monthly comment

Global equity markets recovered well in October, supported by expectations of easier monetary policy and a healthy start to the earnings season. Following the Fed's September and October rate cuts, markets now anticipate an additional cut before year-end, which fueled last month's rally.

Against this backdrop, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Infrastructure Fund declined slightly by -0.6%, underperforming its benchmark (2.1%). Weakness was driven by US waste managers and energy pipelines, while Chinese equities in the portfolio delivered strong gains. Q3 results are underway, and portfolio companies broadly report solid earnings, particularly at the net income level, though top-line revenue growth remains more muted.

Among the top performers, XPO Inc (XPO), the US LTL operator, led gains in October. Despite a stagnant freight environment, the company delivered strong Q3 results, supported by pricing discipline and cost control. Margin improvement under soft volumes suggests resilience and positions XPO for robust earnings growth in a freight up-cycle. Management also guided for further margin gains over the medium term, reinforcing confidence in future profitability.

Ferrovial (FER), the Spanish toll road operator, was another strong performer, reaching a new all-time high. Its flagship asset, Canada's 407 ETR, posted Q3 revenues and EBITDA ahead of consensus, driven by strong traffic growth. The company reaffirmed its 2025 outlook, expecting continued revenue growth supported by higher toll rates and traffic volumes.

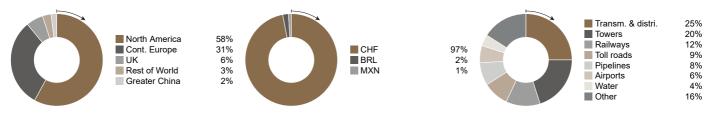

On the downside, US waste managers WM and RSG weighed on performance after reporting Q3 results with softer waste volumes and narrowing 2025 revenue guidance to the lower end of the prior range. While recycling segment weakness drove the guidance revision - reflecting commodity price sensitivity - core collection and disposal businesses remain solid. Both companies maintained earnings guidance for 2025 and expect margin improvements and free cash flow growth into
