Monthly comment

The Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity Fund (I EUR) returned 8.6% in April, outperforming its benchmark by 100bps, as equity markets rebounded and initial Q1 earnings exceeded pessimistic market expectations. Despite ongoing concerns around software and private credit, alternative asset managers continued to report strong fundraising and double-digit growth in fee-related earnings, although at a slower rate, reflecting softer fundraising in private credit. Private equity vehicles also announced further corporate actions and continued to pursue share buybacks to take advantage of elevated NAV discounts, despite posting broadly flat NAV growth during the quarter.

Across segments, alternative asset managers and private equity vehicles were among the strongest performers during the month. We remain positive on both segments. Valuations remain compelling across both areas, with asset managers trading at 16x price-earnings, a discount to historical multiples, and private equity vehicles at an average NAV discount of 31%, double the historical average. We believe the recent indiscriminate sell-off created attractive entry points into high-quality managers and vehicles with limited exposure to software and semi-liquid strategies.

CVC, the European alternative asset manager and our largest fund position, was among the best performers. The manager reported solid Q1 results, with EUR 4.2bn of gross fundraising, the closing of its latest secondary fund above target, and continued strength in the private wealth segment. Most importantly, management expressed confidence in the next private equity fundraising, expected in early 2027, with both the European / North America and Asian funds anticipated to be at least as large as their predecessors. We see this as a key catalyst for the company, driving a meaningful step-up in the management fee base from 2028 onwards. At current levels, CVC trades at 13x fee-related earnings, which we consider attractive for a high-quality manager with significant growth opportunities.

HarbourVest Private Equity, the UK private equity vehicle, was another strong performer during the month. The vehicle announced further measures to address the large NAV discount, including a USD 400m tender offer alongside an additional USD 100m in share buybacks. The Board also committed to distribute 5–10% of NAV annually via periodic tender offers and share buybacks. In addition, management paused new commitments, viewing share repurchases at current discount levels as the most attractive use of capital. We view HarbourVest as exemplary, continuing to lead the sector in implementing shareholder-friendly measures, and we expect other vehicles to follow, particularly given the persistently high NAV discounts across the space.

HgCapital Trust, the software-focused private equity vehicle, was the weakest performer during the month despite no company-specific news. Negative performance was primarily driven by market concerns around the potential impact of AI on SaaS business models, to which HgCapital Trust has high exposure. Following the discount widening to above 30%, management also initiated a share buyback of up to 10% of its market capitalization. Despite the weak share price performance, underlying portfolio activity remained supportive, with the announced exit of Geomatikk Group, an infrastructure software provider, at a 3% premium to the latest NAV.
