Monthly comment

The Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity Fund (I EUR) rose 3.1% in December, bringing full-year performance to 8.0%. Despite challenging market conditions, the fund outperformed its benchmark, the LPX 50, by 240 basis points in 2025 and generated cumulative outperformance after fees of 1,220 basis points over the past 10 years.

Private equity vehicles delivered positive performance in 2025, supported by improving NAV growth and continued share buybacks at large discounts to NAV, which are highly accretive for remaining shareholders. Importantly, despite the positive share price performance, discounts to NAV remain meaningfully above historical averages, reinforcing our constructive view on the sector. In contrast, alternative asset managers posted negative share price performance over the year, driven primarily by multiple contraction rather than deteriorating fundamentals, as sector earnings continued to grow at a double-digit rate in 2025. With transaction and exit activity steadily improving throughout the year, we expect earnings growth to accelerate in 2026, benefiting primarily equity-oriented managers.

During December, Ares Management - one of the fund's largest positions - was added to the S&P 500, becoming the fourth alternative asset manager to join the index. We believe further inclusions are likely in 2026 and have positioned the portfolio accordingly.

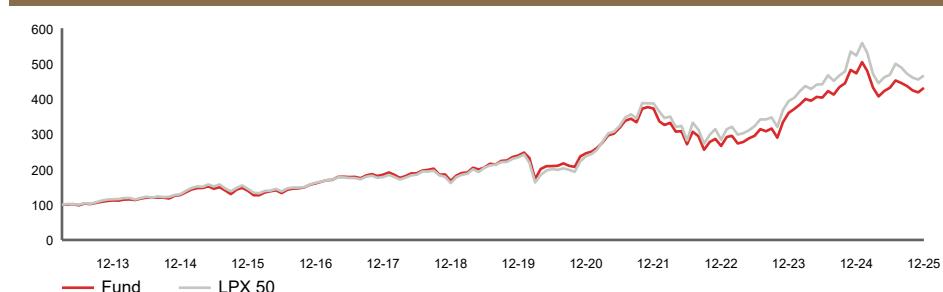

Among the strongest performers in December was EQT. As transaction activity continued to recover, EQT announced several exits, including the partial sale of Galderma, the Swiss dermatology and skincare group, and the divestment of Colisée, a provider of elderly care facilities. Management also continued to expand into the private wealth channel through new evergreen launches, including a private equity ELTIF, an infrastructure evergreen fund, and a US-focused private equity evergreen, which should support longer-term fee growth and improve earnings visibility.

Ares Management was another strong contributor. The company's inclusion in the S&P 500 in early December created meaningful buying pressure from passive index trackers required to purchase the stock, and the portfolio was well-positioned to benefit from this catalyst. We continue to see scope for additional index inclusions across the sector and expect Brookfield Asset Management to be a leading candidate. Beyond index-related technicals, Ares also signaled its intention to scale its private equity franchise, likely through an acquisition. Given that Ares' private equity platform remains subscale versus large US peers, we view this as an additional strategic growth opportunity over time.
