Monthly comment

The Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity Fund (I EUR) remained under pressure in March and declined by 5.3%, underperforming broader equity markets. Markets were weak during the month amid increased volatility, continued concerns that interest rates may stay higher for longer, and renewed risk aversion.

Across segments, private equity vehicles were among the weakest performers, following modest earnings misses from two large companies. Against this backdrop, share price reactions were notably negative despite underlying operating performance remaining relatively solid.

3i Group was the weakest performer during the month following its capital markets seminar for Action, its largest portfolio holding. While Action continues to perform well in absolute terms and relative to peers, with net revenue growth of 16% and store growth of 13%, compared with 10% and 9% for peers over the past year, it missed analysts' like-for-like growth expectations of 5% by one percentage point. This triggered a sharp sell-off, leaving 3i Group trading at a discount to NAV. Following the weakness in the share price, 3i Group's CEO stated that the market reaction was outsized and increased his personal stake in the company by GBP 10m to GBP 410m. Despite a more muted outlook for near-term like-for-like growth, we remain positive on 3i Group, which continues to be one of the fastest-growing listed private equity vehicles and is now trading at an attractive valuation below NAV.

Eurazeo was another weak performer following the release of its results. Investment returns came in below expectations at 4%. The weaker performance was driven by the company's high exposure to software companies, which account for approximately 25% of balance sheet investments. In addition, the company announced a reduction in its share buyback program, targeting EUR 200m of repurchases in 2026, down from EUR 400m previously. Despite these results, we remain constructive on Eurazeo. The reduction in the buyback program is driven by regulatory limits, and the planned EUR 200m program brings the company to the regulatory maximum. Management remains committed to capital returns and intends to further accelerate share buybacks in 2027. In addition, management remains positive on investment returns, having already signed two exits at an uplift to NAV of approximately 150%, and intends to continue rotating out of legacy assets.
