Monthly comment

In August, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure increased in value, however behind the global equity markets which performed strongly, with some global indices having almost fully recovered the losses from the sell-off earlier in the year. Meanwhile, we saw some rebound in the transport sector, with airports and railways being the top performers this month. However, the regulated transmission & distribution companies, as well as the water sector, lagged as investors seemed to have shifted towards more cyclical stocks. On a regional basis, European stocks performed well, but emerging markets were overall weak.

The portfolio's best performing companies were airports, as stocks recovered meaningfully in August after a challenging month in July. Though traffic numbers are still down significantly, some travel restrictions have been eased further and there is potential for improvement in passenger numbers in the second half of the year. Against this background Flughafen Zurich posted solid Q2 results ahead of consensus estimates.

Elsewhere, Sabesp a Brazilian water and waste management company, decreased in value in August. The company's share price suffered on the back of the Sao Paulo government announcing that the company will not be privatised for the time being, but rather added to the state's capitalisation program. This was taken negatively by the market as privatisation was expected.

Finally, Union Pacific Corp has been amongst the strongest portfolio companies this year, and also rose in value last month. The company announced that it expects its 2020 operating ratio to improve, anticipating the year's productivity and pricing gains to outpace an estimated 10% decline in carload volumes.
