Monthly comment

Throughout the year, global equity markets faced significant headwinds, led by the onset of war in Ukraine, surging inflation, and rapidly rising interest rates. In an environment where all major indices declined, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure Fund also suffered. However, due to its higher allocation to defensive infrastructure companies, the Fund provided more stability and outperformed the MSCI World index in 2022. In December, volatility persisted, with global equity markets declining close to 5%, driven by concerns regarding further interest rate hikes. The Fund also posted a negative performance, but outperformed broader equity markets given its underweight to weaker sectors such as airports and pipelines.

The portfolio's best performing company in December was China Resources Gas. The Chinese gas distributor continued the strong performance of the previous month as investor sentiment benefitted from the government's move towards reopening the economy. The pickup in commercial and industrial gas volumes and the recent policies on the property market further supports the stock's performance.

In contrast, ADP, the French airport operator, performed weakly during the month. The negative performance was caused by the news that one of its largest shareholders, Royal Schiphol Group, will sell its remaining stake in ADP. The reported traffic figures from ADP for November are up 31% compared to the previous year but 15% lower than in the previous month.

Finally, Orsted, the global leader in developing, constructing, and managing offshore wind farms was among the best performers in December. The company recently announced to partner with a Danish developer for renewable energy projects to build a facility with the capacity to generate 3GW of energy, which would be one of the largest plants in Europe. With the realization of the project, Orsted and its partner could play a key role in the export of renewable hydrogen.

Definitions

This monthly report is produced based on information available on the last working day of the month.

Infrastructure

The term 'infrastructure' comprises all durable capital goods which ensure the proper development of an economy. They comprise transportation infrastructure assets such as roads, airports, railways, harbours, tunnels and bridges. However, they also include assets of the communication infrastructure, such as TV and radio transmission systems, antennas and transmission towers for mobile phones, satellite systems and cable networks. Infrastructure also refers to utility assets in the fields of energy and water, such as energy facilities for power generation and distribution, of gas and oil exploration and distribution, as well as other water supply and distribution facilities, including desalination plants and sewage treatment facilities. Finally, infrastructure also includes the provision of services in the fields of education and health, as well as public sector building facilities (social infrastructure).

Listed infrastructure

A 'listed infrastructure' company is listed on a stock exchange and its purpose is investing in infrastructure assets.

Total return

Total return is calculated according the standard BVI-method of the Bundesverband Investment and Asset Management.
