Monthly comment

In April, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure Fund developed positively and outperformed its benchmark, while global equity markets staged a modest recovery following the volatility experienced the previous month. The Fund demonstrated its stable characteristics and rewarded our focus on companies within our portfolio that can deliver earnings growth in a rising inflation and a feeble economic growth scenario. Within the portfolio, toll roads, airports and waste operators all delivered healthy performance driven by Q1 earnings, while social infrastructure was the only sub-sector that slightly declined in value. Among regions, aside from Chinese equities, all regions performed positively, led by Brazilian and European equities.

ADP, the French airport operator and portfolio's best performing company in April, delivered a robust revenue growth of 41% year-on-year for Q1. Revenues across all segments increased strongly and exceeded expectations. This result was a particularly impressive surprise considering the passenger numbers from China remaining low. The company has not yet increased guidance, however, we expect management to upgrade it later in the year if passenger numbers continue to recover well.

Vinci, the French toll road operator also delivered strong results in Q1, with all segments performing well ahead of expectations. The Concessions segment, which reports on its toll road and airport operations, grew by 24% year-on-year, which is also the highest growth rate in the group. Encouragingly, the orders intake and the order book remain in a very healthy position for the rest of the year. The company has maintained its guidance for the rest of the financial year, with revenue and net income expected to be higher than in 2022 despite rising cost pressures.

Finally, Republic Services, the US waste management operator, reported very strong Q1 results. While volumes have grown at low single digits, pricing on the other hand has delivered high single digit growth, bringing the overall revenues higher by nearly 10% during the quarter. This bodes well for the company in a high inflation environment as it demonstrates its pricing power in its core business. Following the strong start, the company also slightly raised its guidance for the current fiscal year.
