Monthly comment

After the mostly positive performance of the previous months, the global equity markets developed rather negatively in November, which also had an impact on Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Infrastructure.

China Merchant Port was among the negative contributors for this month. The share price suffered from the announcement of the Chinese government that certain ports may have to lower their tariffs by up to 20%. On the other side, US towers developed favorably in the reporting month, after the rumors of a potential merge of Sprint and T-Mobile US have been denied.

Furthermore, Sabesp, the Brazilian water and waste management company, increased in value after the publication of its Q3 results. This was mainly due to an increase in volume growth and efficient cost controlling. In addition, analysts expect further appreciation in profit to come in the next quarters. Meanwhile the risk of capital dilution from an equity issuance also decreased, after the São Paulo governor announced that, in case of a privatization, 51% of the shares would remain in the hands of the state.

CCR, the Brazilian toll road operator performed unfavorably in November, which raised concerns with investors and analysts whether the company is able to make accretive acquisitions in a highly competitive environment.

Finally, the Spanish airport operator Aena performed positively in the reporting period. The favorable performance is mostly driven by strong growth figures in passenger and cargo divisions. Further, reports about the potential sale of 2'000 hectares of land near the Airport Madrid also contributed to the development.
