Monthly comment

In November, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure performed very well and recorded one of the strongest months since inception on the back of the US election results and the positive news around the development of COVID-19 vaccines. Previously hard-hit sectors such as toll roads and airports recovered sharply, with transportation especially in Europe leading the way, based on the hopes that a vaccine will be approved before year-end.

On average, the airport sector increased by approximately 20% during the reporting period. Ferrovial, the diversified Spanish infrastructure operator, benefited from this development particularly. Apart from the positive news regarding the vaccine, the company increased its majority stake in I-77 Managed Lanes project, acquiring an additional 15% and taking its stake to 65%.

Elsewhere, National Grid the British transmission and distribution company was one of a few underperformers. The company reported H1 2020 results, which were slightly below consensus on EBIT, largely driven by lower results in UK's Electric Transmission and the US businesses.

Finally, the French toll road operator Vinci also performed very strongly. Shares were boosted at the start of the month by the news of the win of the Sydney Gateway motorway contract in Australia, worth a reported AUD 1.5bn. Though volumes were muted in October-November due to lockdowns across Europe, traffic is expected to return to normal levels quickly, as seen at the end of the first lockdown.
