Monthly comment

Global equity markets experienced increased volatility in November. While Q3 corporate earnings were overall solid, declines were driven by concerns over high stock valuations and uncertainty around whether artificial intelligence will deliver sufficient profits to justify the substantial investments companies have made.

Markets continue to price in further monetary easing, which could provide support into year end. Against this backdrop, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Infrastructure Fund rose in November and outperformed broader markets, largely driven by strong Q3 results reported by several portfolio companies. By sector, waste managers and energy pipelines performed best, while communications infrastructure and logistics lagged. Among the top performers, Grupo Aeroportuario del Centro Norte (OMAB), the Mexican airport operator, led gains in November, supported by strong October passenger growth of 8.5% year over year. International passenger numbers increased by 10.3%, and its largest airport, Monterrey, saw a year over year increase of 15.3%. The company also announced the opening of two new domestic routes out of Monterrey.

Pipelines (TRP, KMI, ENB, WMB) also performed well, largely on the back of better than expected Q3 results for several companies. The sector had struggled in October as the earnings outlook heading into Q3 reporting had softened. Despite some macroeconomic headwinds, results were overall solid, with certain companies, such as TC Energy, upgrading medium term guidance. Several names were also upgraded by analysts following the results.

On the downside, Inwit (INW), the Italian tower operator, declined following a slightly disappointing earnings release. While Q3 numbers were in line with expectations, management cut 2026 and 2030 guidance due to ongoing delays in operator spend. The company now expects to deliver at the low end of previously communicated ranges, reflecting continued low demand from Italian operators as well as lower inflation for 2026 (1.5% vs 1.7% previously). While the guidance cut is disappointing, the overall growth outlook remains strong, and the company now trades at very attractive valuation levels.
