Monthly comment

In June, global equity markets developed positively, driven primarily by technology-focused sectors. The performance was largely driven by the resolution in the US Congress to raise the debt ceiling and a decline in US inflation to its lowest point in two years. Consequently, the Fed is now expected to slow or halt their hiking cycle, after leaving the rate unchanged in June. In Europe, inflation persists, with the UK especially facing difficulties in reducing it. In this context, Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure performed well and extended the outperformance over the benchmark YTD. Waste managers emerged as the best-performing sector, benefiting from their pricing power and a focus on profitability over growth. Water and social infrastructure experienced more challenges, while US REITs (towers and datacenters) saw gains from risk-on sentiment.

The best performing portfolio company this month was Williams. The US pipeline operator reported improved financials and achieved a net leverage ratio below 4x ahead of schedule, likely shifting focus to growth and shareholder distributions. This prompted a strong rebound in its share price in June.

On the other hand, two social infrastructure companies declined in value due to a market shift away from defensive sectors and towards riskier sectors such as technology, with no company-specific news driving this underperformance.

Finally, the US railway operator CSX Transportation performed well. While industry volumes overall declined slightly in June, CSX continued its momentum from last month as it led the productivity gains among US rails. Intermodal traffic saw continued weakness, whereas bulk commodities held up well. Furthermore, the company announced a collaboration with CPKC and G&W, aiming to establish a new freight corridor connecting Mexico, Texas, and the US Southeast

Monthly report as of 30 June 2023

Definitions

This monthly report is produced based on information available on the last working day of the month.

Infrastructure

The term 'infrastructure' comprises all durable capital goods which ensure the proper development of an economy. They comprise transportation infrastructure assets such as roads, airports, railways, harbours, tunnels and bridges. However, they also include assets of the communication infrastructure, such as TV and radio transmission systems, antennas and transmission towers for mobile phones, satellite systems and cable networks. Infrastructure also refers to utility assets in the fields of energy and water, such as energy facilities for power generation and distribution, of gas and oil exploration and distribution, as well as other water supply and distribution facilities, including desalination plants and sewage treatment facilities. Finally, infrastructure also includes the provision of services in the fields of education and health, as well as public sector building facilities (social infrastructure).

Listed infrastructure

A 'listed infrastructure' company is listed on a stock exchange and its purpose is investing in infrastructure assets.

Total return

Total return is calculated according the standard BVI-method of the Bundesverband Investment and Asset Management.
