Monthly comment

Global equity markets performed negatively in September following growing investor concerns around rising interest rates and slowing growth. US equities slumped and Treasury yields reached new highs for the year after data showing a renewed rise in US core inflation in August, suggesting higher inflation will persist. That prompted the Fed to implement a third-straight 0.75% rate hike, and a continued hawkish tone for the rest of the year. In Europe, the backdrop was similar with central banks also combatting inflation, as the continent deals with the ongoing energy crisis and a looming recession. The ECB raised rates by an unprecedented 0.75% in early September, and the Bank of England raised its base rate by 0.5% for a seventh consecutive rate increase. The Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Infrastructure suffered in this market trend, with the US communication infrastructure REITs particularly weak from the ensuing volatility and muted market performance.

During the month, communication infrastructure stocks such as Cellnex and American Tower performed weakly, as the sector is considered sensitive to rising yields. However, there has been no deterioration in underlying fundamentals, with no slowdown in 5G rollout, and leverage remaining within comfortable levels. Communication infrastructure continues to see strong growth potential from healthy leasing activity and high scope of consolidation.

Finally, US railroads such as Union Pacific and CSX had a volatile month on the back of concerns of a strike by freight rail workers demanding better working conditions. Over 50 thousand workers threatened to strike, which would have seen the rail industry grind to a halt, costing the US economy billions per day. The US Department of Labor was heavily involved in the negotiations and managed to reach a tentative agreement to stop the strike plans. In particular, CSX was downgraded by Bernstein, citing macro crosswinds and inflation concerns affecting freight volume growth in the future.
