Monthly comment

In November, Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity recorded one of the best months since inception. The positive performance was largely driven by the US presidential election results and the positive news about the development of COVID-19 vaccines. In the reporting period, all sectors contributed positively with direct investment companies and alternative asset managers being the best performers.

The portfolio's best performing company this month was the British asset manager Intermediate Capital Group (ICP). The specialized debt manager focusing on senior and subordinated debt reported its H1 2020 results, which were ahead of expectations. The portfolios, in particular the Asian and European ones, performed strongly and management announced to increase the dividend by 13%. Moreover, the manager exceeded its deployment objective throughout the pandemic and took advantage of the reduced market valuations.

In contrast, the British private equity company HG Capital Trust was the weakest performer this month despite moderately positive results. The software and tech focused portfolio benefited less from the positive news about COVID-19 vaccines, which has generally helped more cyclical industries.

Another top performer was the French direct investment company Eurazeo, which mainly invests in French mid- and large-cap buyouts. The company benefited from good Q3 results. Against expectations, Eurazeo's fund raising activity picked up strongly and management expects to surpass the 2019 AuM growth by the end of the year. Furthermore, management announced to accelerate its divestment program in 2021 to capitalize value on some mature portfolio investments.
