Monthly comment

In November, Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity saw a slight reduction in the positive performance that the Fund has achieved since the beginning of the year. While US equity markets benefited from an anticipation of pro-equity market policies by the newly-elected Trump administration, the corresponding performance of equities in Europe and emerging economies were suffering due to concerns of reduced global trade and lower capital flows from the US.

British alternative asset manager Intermediate Capital has been this month's best performer after reporting its interim statement. The company recently profited from the favorable fund raising environment. Intermediate Capital plans to continue building out its asset management business enabling them to focus on stable management fees. The shift towards a fee-driven model has whet investor's appetite for a more progressive dividend policy.

Meanwhile, London-based direct investment company Electra Private Equity has launched a share buyback program of GBP 200m, relating to 11.55% of the total share capital. The share buyback will reduce the company's large cash-level which activist investor Sherborne has recently scrutinized. The money returned via the tender offer would make up part of the target to return 3% of net assets to shareholders each year.

Further, also Danish holding company Schouw and US-based BDC New Mountain Finance Corporation (NMFC) reported positive quarterly results. Schouw reported an increase in revenues by 20% and an increase in EBITDA by 30% year over year while NMFC convinced its investors with a dividend yield of 10%. The dividends are fully covered by the company's net investment income while significant capital gains have not been distributed.
