Monthly comment

Global equity markets rebounded in July, recovering some of the losses from the first half of the year. Following the second consecutive 75 basis points interest rates hike from the Federal Reserve in July, the Fed Chairman implied that monetary tightening could continue at a slower pace, especially after the recent weakening of economic data. Second quarter corporate earnings were better than expected, improving market sentiment, and contributing to the positive performance during the month. In this context, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Listed Private Equity Fund rebounded and developed positively. All subsectors generated double-digit returns during the month, with alternative asset managers performing the best. Most asset managers reported strong results, showing continued high fundraising and resilient transaction activity.

On a portfolio level, the best performing company during the month was EQT. The Sweden-based private equity manager continues to see strong fundraising momentum and has already raised two-thirds of the new private equity vintage EQT X, targeting EUR 20 billion. The performance of funds remains very strong with many funds performing above plan, which should bolster fundraising for EQT X as well as the upcoming infrastructure flagship fund. The company is on track in terms of business development. It diversified the platform, added new strategies, and more recently expanded into Asia. Management remains bullish on the combination with Baring Private Equity Asia and sees the region as a major growth driver.

Finally, the alternative asset manager Ares Management convinced investors. The company, among the largest debt-focused managers, profits from rising interest rates as most investments have floating rates and reported a strong set of results during the month. Inflows, capital deployments and investment performance were all above expectations. Management is quite positive on 2022 fundraising and expects to have more than 25 different funds in the market. The company reiterated the long-term target to reach USD 500 billion of AUM by 2025, which translates into a >20% CAGR in fee-related earnings and dividends.
