Monthly comment

In January, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Listed Private Equity Fund had a successful start into the new year. Signs of easing inflation in several major regions and hopes that central banks will slow the interest rate-hike pace supported investor sentiment. The earnings season has started well for the companies in the portfolio. Especially the alternative asset managers and direct investment companies have contributed to the good performance.

On a portfolio level the best performing holding during the month was the US-based alternative asset manager, Blackstone. The company reported solid fourth quarter and full year 2022 results. Blackstone benefits from a broad product platform including private equity but also asset classes, that profit from higher inflation or interest rates such as traditional private debt and real estate debt. Although M&A activities slowed down last year, Blackstone was able to convince with good figures. The company was able to increase its assets under management by 11% to USD 975 billion. Moreover, capital deployment remained good, and Blackstone managed to allocate approximately USD 19 billion in the fourth quarter and a total of USD 120.6 billion in 2022.

Further, Intermediate Capital ("ICG") also convinced investors with its quarterly update. The UK-based alternative asset manager has a focus on private debt strategies and could increase its assets under management to total USD 75 billion in 2022, reflecting an annual growth rate of 23% over the past five years. Deployment also remained solid, particularly in private equity secondary strategies. Moreover, ICG launched a number of new funds during the quarter and management remained optimistic about the fund-raising outlook.

Finally, 3i, the British investment company, presented good results. The majority of 3i's portfolio companies continue to show resilience despite the tough macroeconomic backdrop. Action, the Benelux-based discount retailer, is 3i's largest investment and performed strongly. The company continued expanding the network of stores and increased sales as well as EBITDA by 30% and 46% during 2022, respectively. Management remained optimistic about the near-term growth of Action and identified several locations for new stores.
