Monthly comment

In January, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV - Multi Asset Income dipped slightly, primarily driven by the weakness in infrastructure. The sector was particularly dragged down by airport and toll road operators due to re-introduced lockdowns in several countries. Meanwhile, the portfolio benefitted from the strong performance of Private Equity, especially direct investment companies. In Real Estate, US REITs recorded strong performance, while office REITs were rather weak.

HG Capital, a British private equity company, was the best performer this month due to several news on the investment side. The company invested additional capital in TeamSystem and confirmed an investment into Prophix, a Canada-based provider of corporate performance management software. Lastly, the company reportedly considers an IPO of Mobility, a B2B auto leasing platform acquired in 2018.

Ferrovial, the Spanish infrastructure operator, performed poorly in January. The underperformance was largely driven by the plunge in the December passenger traffic as well as an uncertain outlook for Q1 2021 for Heathrow. The airport operator reported a 73% fall in passenger traffic as well as a 28% fall in cargo numbers in 2020 compared to 2019. Further, there was concern around a toll road in Ontario, which could potentially take some traffic from one of the companies toll roads.

Finally, pipeline companies were able to continue the positive performance they exhibited in late 2020, as part of the cyclical rally, despite the Biden's move to block the Keystone XL project.
