Monthly comment

In December, the Partners Group Listed Investments SICAV – Multi Asset Income further increased in value, driven by the positive contributions from all three asset classes, with Infrastructure in particular. While some negative news including the Fed's rate normalization in 2022 and the surge in the Covid-19 daily cases driven by Omicron variant infections weakened the sentiment in the beginning of the month, equities rallied closer to the month-end, driven by the expectation of no strict lockdowns imposed in major economies considering the currently low fatality rate of Omicron variant.

One of the best performers was Atmos Energy, the US regulated gas distributor based in Texas, whose share price recovered strongly in December after a weak performance during 2021. The US utilities, overall, performed strongly during the month, despite the hawkish tone on the interest rate lift-offs, primarily driven by the rotation from cyclical to defensive shares among investors.

Another top performer during the month was the US tower operator Crown Castle. The US towers stocks performed strongly in December on the back of expectations regarding higher capital expenditure by telecom operators in 2022, leading to an increase in tower leasing activity.

Finally, the diversified Spanish infrastructure operator Ferrovial also contributed positively. The UK aviation regulator CAA confirmed that Heathrow Airport ("Heathrow") can lift passenger charge from GBP 19.6 to GBP 29.50 in January 2022. This implies an approximately 50% increase from the previously allowed charge, although lower than the +95% increase suggested by Heathrow management earlier. While both Heathrow and its largest customer, International Airlines Group, appear to be displeased with the regulator's decision, investors might have taken comfort in that big regulatory uncertainty is now behind for one of the largest Ferrovial's assets. Moreover, no major travel restrictions were announced in the US and countries in Europe, which positively affected transport shares overall.
